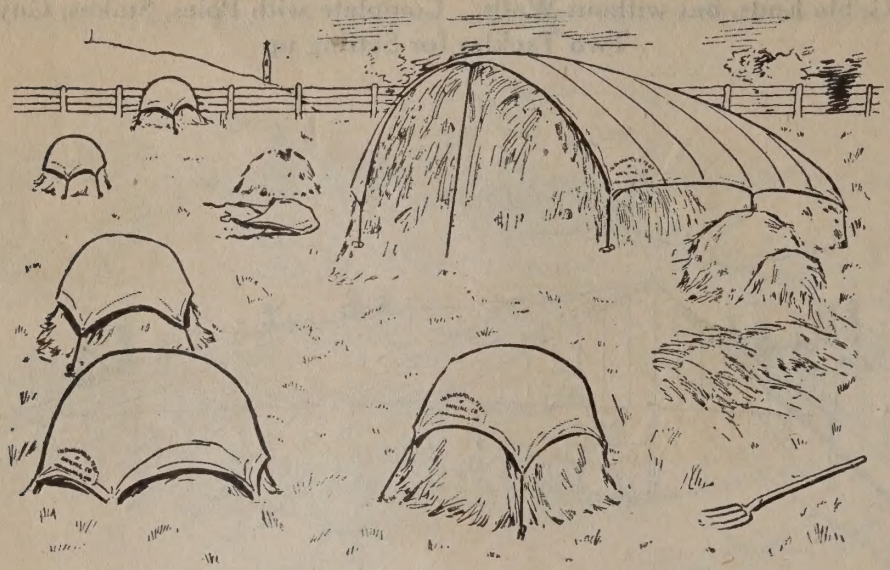
Stack and Haycock Covers



Stack Covers are used for stacks while being made. Haycock Covers are for grain while in the shock and for hay while in the cock. Every "wide awake" farmer knows the value of such covers, and will not be without an adequate supply. They save many times their cost.

HAYCOCK COVERS

Made with Eyelets in each corner, to which pegs can be attached, or the rope forced into the hay by a finishing thrust of the hay fork.

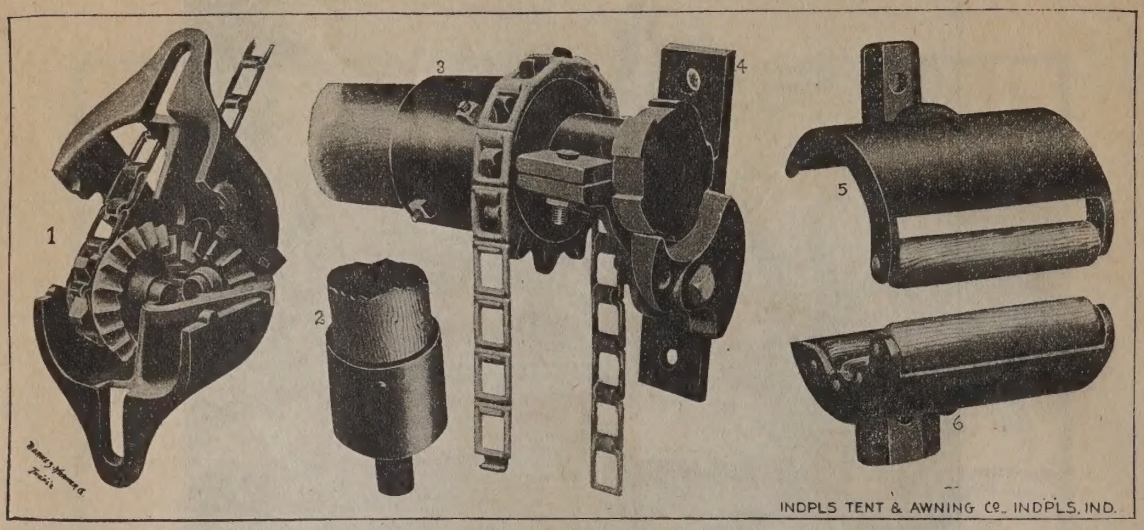
Bevel Gear Chain Roller Awning



The above cuts give a good explanation of our NEW PATENT CHAIN ROLLER AWNING FIXTURES, which we flatter ourselves in knowing that we have the best thing on the market, and after examination, you will agree with us.

We draw your attention to the interior of the crank box, showing that the boxing and gearing are all cast in one piece. There are no blots or screws to become lose and allow the bevel gearing to get out of true.

We next draw your attention to Fixtures Nos. 3 and 4. The safety catch on the end of the roller casting prevents the awning from unrolling and coming down (which other makes will allow), in case the chain breaks, jumps the sprocket or the operator loses control of the awning.

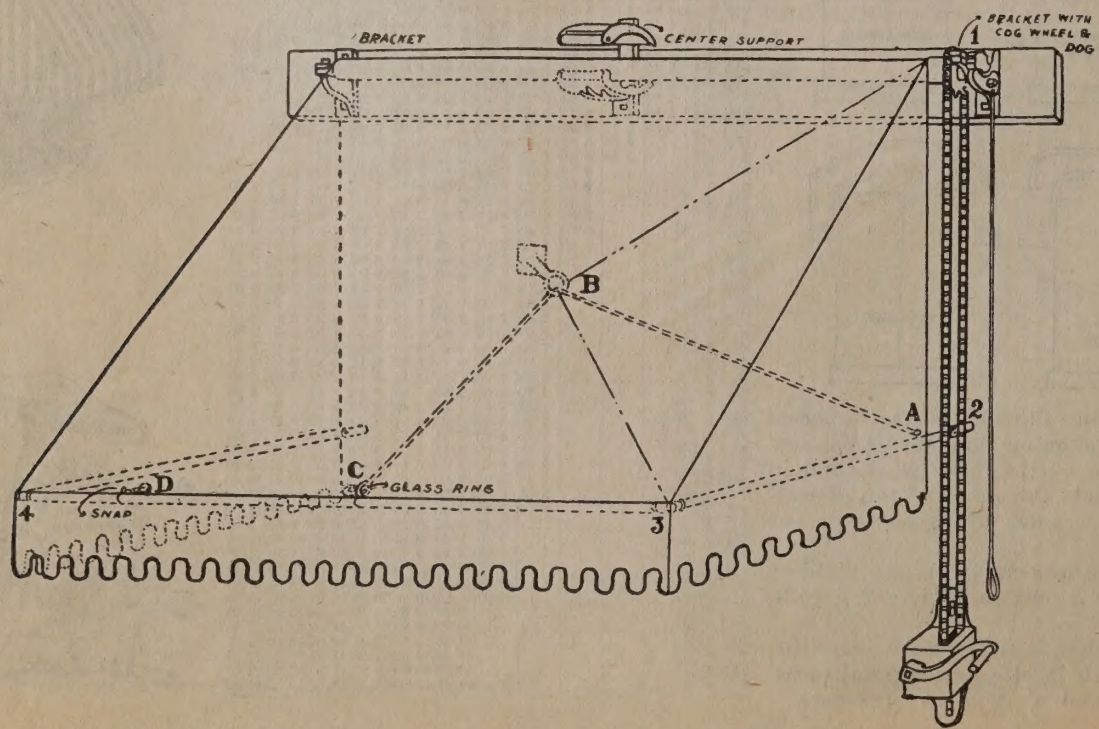
We also draw your attention to Fixtures Nos. 5 and 6, our center supports which are large and roomy and will not tear the cloth.

Now notice Fixtures Nos. 2 and 3. These are the pole end sockets—one plain and the other with chain sprocket and safety ratchet catch. These are cast one piece, and you will notice the end of the pole is inserted in the cup part about three inches, which strengthens the roller at its weakest point, and where the strength and power are mostly needed. All other pole end sockets have a flange attachment passing on the inside of the roller, weakening the end of the roller, where we give it strength.

All fixtures are heavy and strong, but neat and sightly, and when once put on a building there is no danger of giving you trouble from breaking or wearing out.

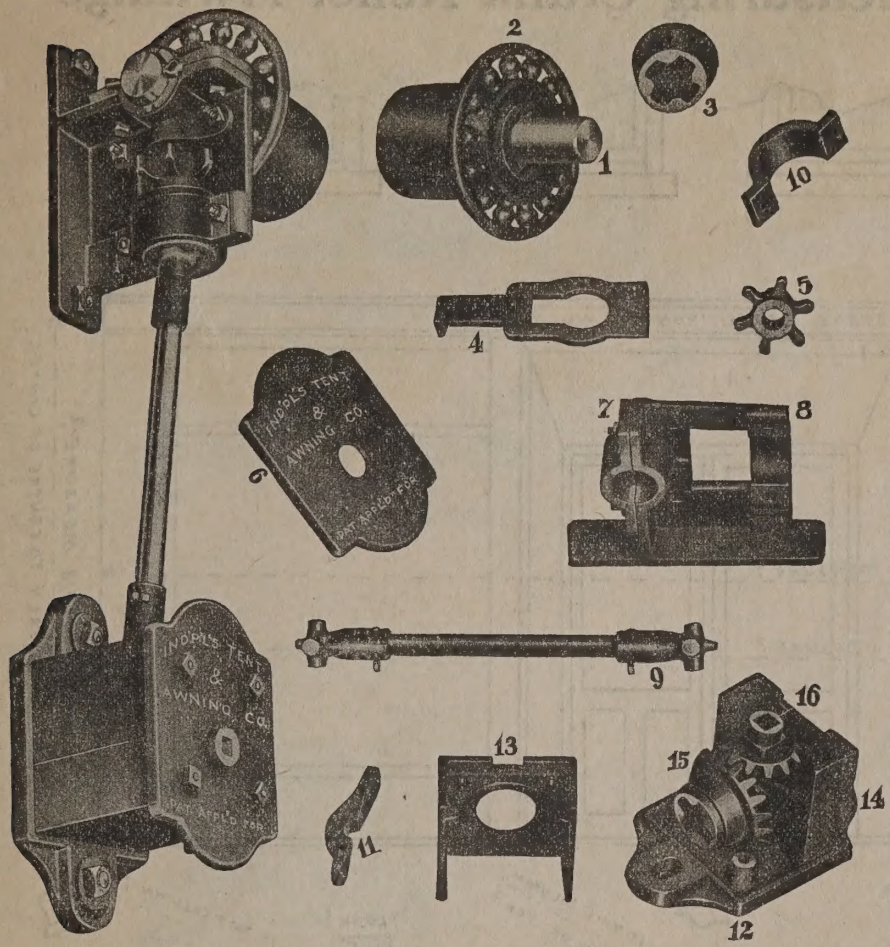
Our chain runs direct, and has no quarter or half twist.

We have been working in the manufacture of awnings for seventeen years, and have used and put up every conceivable kind of Crank Roller Awning Fixtures that are made, and we tell you that these fixtures are far superior, more simple, more easily put on your building, have more strength, nothing to get out of order and never wear out. We are speaking from our own experience and challenge any other manufacturer of awning fixtures.



The above is a good mechanical drawing of a crank roller awning, fastened to a building ready for use, and operated by chain fixtures.

Ball Gear Shaft Drive Roller Awnings



We take pleasure in showing you our New Ball Gear Crank Awning fixtures, and ours is the only one of this principle ever patented and is ten years ahead of any Bevel Gear fixture now on the market.

There is no slipping or wearing away of gears. Lost motion is unkown in this fixture. They are strong, neat in appearance and mechanically constructed.

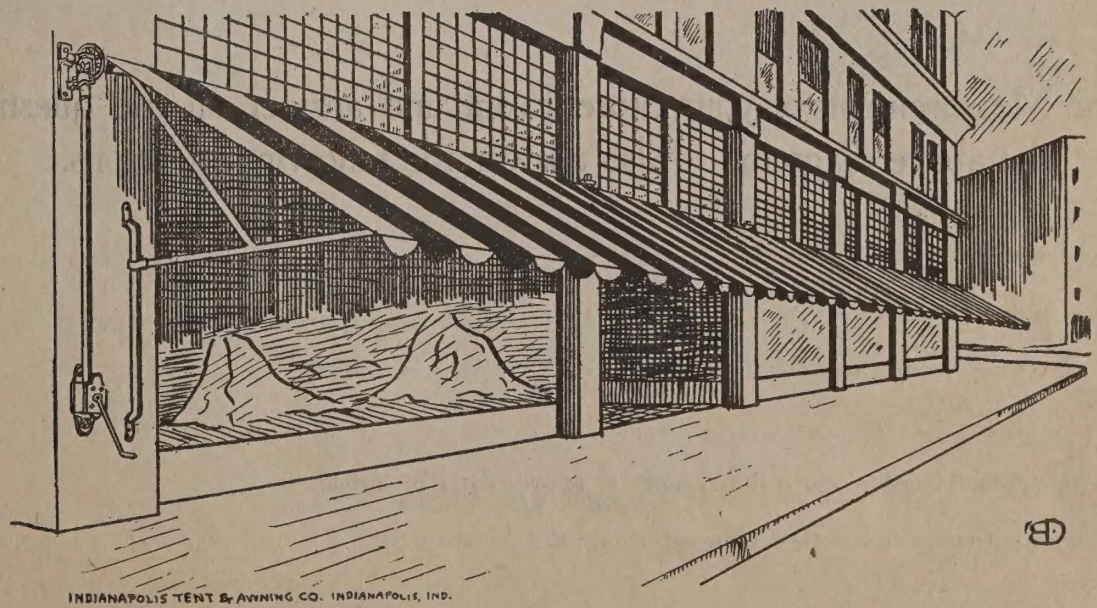
Our Ball Gear Shaft Drive Awning is without a doubt the most up-to-date, satisfactory and neatest gear roller awning on the market. It works on the same principle as our chain roller awning, excepting that the roller at the top, which works with the Ball gear, is connected with a bevel gear enclosed in the crank box below, with a rod. It works exactly on the same principle as the chainless bicycle.

The locking device is sure, you need no keys.

These fixtures, like our chain roller awning fixtures, are very simple, well constructed and with the directions sent out with each awning, any half-way mechanic can put it up without trouble. The wearing of parts of these fixtures are figured down to a minimum and we guarantee each and every piece.

In the selection of an awning, as in every thing else—be it a house, a threshing machine, a horse, a pipe or a cigar—the customers differ in making their choice.

While a majority of our customers are using the chain roller awning, there are many who prefer the Ball Gear Shaft Drive Awning. Take your choice you cannot make a mistake. Remember these awnings have improvements covered by U. S. patents that are not found in any other awning manufactured in the U. S.



This is a good illustration of a crank roller awning, fastened to building ready for use, operated by a Ball gear shaft drive fixtures.
